

Changes in Future Technology

---

- The internal implant is made backwards compatible so that you can always advance your external processor without having another surgery.
- Upgrades are done via software or an exchange in external equipment and may be covered by your insurance if deemed medically necessary.

